

Get direct access to your supply chain data

material.one connects manufacturers, suppliers and laboratories on one platform and creates a digital standard for exchanging data in the supply chain.

Benefit from the digital replica of your supply chain

Ever more data from the supply chain is necessary

With decreasing vertical integration, manufacturers are more dependent than ever on supplier data to guarantee series release on time for SOP. In addition, the requirements of the legislator regarding additional evidence are increasing.

Prepared today for tomorrow's requirements

Without standardized formats or interfaces to suppliers, each document must be manually reviewed for relevant information. In the process, there is always the risk of data being incomplete, sent in too late, or having formal errors.
